Greetings, adventurers! We will now open the world of the Elden Ring to adventurers. Lamentation is a fantasy action RPG where players build up the character of their choice, and the fate of the character is determined by their own actions in a three-dimensional and fantastical setting. Gathering in a world filled with danger and mystery, you search for and fight monsters in a dark fantasy setting that is difficult to explore. There is no schedule in the gameplay, and the journey is over once the main quest has been completed. In addition, we will also introduce a novel that will expand on the story of the game. Thank you for your continued support of us! We are looking forward to your continued support and contributions. Once again, thank you for supporting us on our journey. The Elden Ring Game TeamQ: CMake: How to build a library name relative to my source tree Suppose I have 2 libraries: mylib.a mylib.dylib mylib.a defines a function, which I want to use in several projects. project/ + - CMakeLists.txt + - mylib.a project/lib/ + - CMakeLists.txt + - mylib.dylib Now, the question is, how can I have a build command for mylib.a that references mylib.dylib? I've tried to use mylib.a as a source, but since mylib.a depends on a header I need to include, I have to set the LIBRARY_OUTPUT_PATH. I've tried to set the LIBRARY_OUTPUT_NAME like this: set(LIBRARY_OUTPUT_NAME mylib) But it yields the error message: Error: LIBRARY_OUTPUT_NAME was set to "mylib.a" in project but name "mylib.dylib" was specified. This is how it looks like with LIBRARY_OUTPUT_NAME: libproject/CMakeLists.txt set(LIBRARY_OUTPUT_PATH "${PROJECT_BINARY_DIR}/${LIBRARY_OUTPUT_NAME}.a") elden-ring-enjoy a vast world with amazing graphics! Blood and Bone Building As you make your way through a dungeon, you can accumulate valuable items and weapons as you fight your way through. By defeating monsters and bosses, you can increase your weapon's attack power and ability to absorb bone. * When you start building, monsters and bosses will attack you.* If you accidentally die while building, it does not matter. However, once you stop building, all accumulated Bone will be lost.

WHY DO YOU NEED YOUR OWN BONE!?

It is extremely difficult to accumulate enough Rune seeds or ingredients to create Runes! It is also impossible to gather more Rune seeds and ingredients to refine them. Only the strong survive, and stronger weapons are possible when higher-rated Rune is consumed.

In Battle, by collecting bones one by one, you can increase your level of weapon and ability to absorb Bone, greatly enhancing your strength during battle! That's right! The more bones you eat, the stronger your weapon will become. Death itself is a boon! It is essential that you lead this life carefully.

!!CASTING CURSE!!

The higher your level of weapon, the more damage your attacks will inflict. Thus, it's important not to lead this life carelessly. Having a strong weapon, you can enjoy battle!!!!

You are Armour Material

As you ride through the fields and dungeons of the Lands Between, an abundant source of Metals is obtained! Since all metals produced in the Nether or on the ground are Junk Metals that can be consumed, you can look for these metals whenever you see them. As you accumulate Metals, you will eventually be able to synthesize your own materials at shops.
