You can freely choose who you want to play as. You can choose what weapons you want to use, and what each character's special attack. You can switch your character to be your (sibling) twin in a matter of seconds. A few cosmetic features, like hair color and skin color, can be unlocked through in-game items. The fast-paced and fun gameplay of 'The Misadventures of Denniz & Diana' will be sure to keep you on your toes as you try to survive the cave depths of NaN-City! NOTE: This is a standalone addon, it does not require ESO: Emperor to play. This addon serves two purposes: 1) Rebuild NaN-City as it was in the days before Norsca left on his adventures. 2) Incorporate the many, many little things that I want to make in the world of the Elder Scrolls into a cohesive addon. The main boss room is Omen, of course. Enemies include Blood Vipers, Frogs, bears, wolves, bats and dragons. All of which come in two varieties: regular and enraged. Cave Falls will be the release of this update. This room is the only one that always will be present (except for updates), and I will be releasing a room or two each week. In all of my renders, I will be using ESO's Model Viewer to modify my models, and Blender to make my textures. On with the update! - Added a Dark-Haired Dragon, a variant of Magdrae. - Added some extra chests. - Added a boss room with three new, fearsome creatures! - Added an area in the Cave Falls that will allow the player to utilize a small raft. This is a temporary feature. - Removed an island because I don't like how it looked in my head. NOTE: The two sides of this island are still visible in the mountain pass, as well as a few points on the cliffs. - Added a cave, with a boss which will contain a new ability called the Static Disruptor - Added some new furniture and a slightly modified slide of the menu. - Tried to make the music a bit more original. My previous music was made by the ESO music team. - Sound fx were simplified. Version 1.04

What's new:

of Attraction I have been thinking about magick recently and about my own definition of that term. Too many people seem to use it interchangeably with fairy-ism which denotes the concept of "protection", "repelling negative energies" or "karma". I suppose my concern is that people soon learn to replace "relishing" with something called karma or magic. Take, for instance, the famous, "Think positive thoughts - Receive positive results." I suppose thatís effortless but in fact almost anyone can do that. Too many believe that if they think positively they will, but itís just that easy to be like, "Donít die thinker! We all have a thought or two that could kill us without our knowing that such thoughts exist. (S)he can always just state, "Donít die ó ha ha ha ha." I In the old days in Europe you found villagers with wooden stakes tied to their necks and they were buried to last, perhaps overnight, by decomposition because of magick-curses, but I donít think this practice is still in use although ím not sure if it could really be considered magick these days. íve been thinking too about how some seemingly powerless people set up their business, community or goal in life and how f some of the ideas here donít really stand up to scrutiny. These people have had successful ideas for themselves that some magical community should pay attention to. I do not dismiss any magick that one might come up with. Perhaps it is merely a chance for us to say, "Well, thereís a non-magical way to do that." ím just curious why some of these ideas are popular. When given a question of "Why do some people enjoy certain foods?", part of the answer is that we are sold on certain ideas of good eating. Foods are bound to please us in some way. And then we pass on this knowledge to the next generations and they then teach it to their children and so it goes on and on. Now whether you subscribe to all of this is up to you. I read somewhere that if everyone went vegetarian we would have so many hungry people that we might all starve. That sounds too absurd to believe. If you ask "Why do some people hate so and so?", the answer could be a lot of things and may not have anything to do with magick at all. The offender could be interim ACPU has said there is an urgent need to address rising living costs, with the latest increases taking effect from July 5 this year. "There are some very serious accommodation issues arising in the Auckland region at present, h we believe to be in part due to housing shortages, and the government must urgently address them," member David Foxcroft said. Provided the ACPU wins the November 7 election it will create a committee to look at radical ons for increasing Government's share of tax revenues collected from onshore-bond investing. It could include instituting a capital gains tax on overseas investors, and using a selection of subsidies to change the types of ownership hich the capital gains are taxed. It could also start encouraging the Government to get directly involved in mining and agriculture. "The Government's share of the revenue from these business activities has dropped a long way below t was forecast in the finance and expenditure papers a decade ago," Mr Foxcroft said. "It has a duty to seek a greater proportion of that revenue from overseas investments, mining and agriculture." Comment is being sought from the our Party on the issue.Protection of mouse uterus against heat stress induced toxicant, zearalenone. We studied the influence of zearalenone (ZEN) in different dosages on mouse uterus and the ability of this spiroketal to protect against heat and ZEN induced toxicity. Mice were treated with zearalenone (ZEN) and heat for 2 h in four week interval for 8 weeks (80 mg/kg). The mice were killed one week after the final heat and ZEN treatment and their organs e histologically examined. Immunoblotting was also performed. Treatment of mice with zearalenone resulted in normal growth, ovarian hypertrophy, development of abnormal uterine development without any increase in the mitotic x or abnormal histology. Heat stress for 2 h caused hemorrhagic changes in the lumen of the cervical canal and an alteration in the mitotic activity in the cells of the myometrium, stroma of the endometrium and endometrial glands. administration
