This is a shallow water body, which means the closer you get to the shores, the shallower the water will be. If you are lucky, you may be able to walk in a few meters around the shore and get a clean silhouette of the reflection. However, due to the pipeline that runs directly under the reservoir, the level of the lake is not lowered and the reservoir is up to two meters higher than normal. The oil pipelines under the Gary Reservoir The man-made, oil and gas pipelines beneath the Gary Reservoir While there is some good news to tell you about, it's also quite sad. Pipelines by design are designed to be buried deep in the ground to avoid surface disturbances, but in this case, they were put in place to bring oil from the Gulf of Mexico to the refinery, which operates out of Lake Charles. The pipelines are twinned, and the one on the left is 29,000 feet in length. This is just one of many pipes that run beneath the Beaumont and Port Arthur areas. The purpose is to bring in crude from the Gulf and to store it in place of more expensive oil transported by tankers. It makes sense to bring in the oil in an underground location to reduce the effect of storm, hurricanes or earthquakes. There is nothing too bad about the oil pipeline under the reservoir, except the fact that you can't go to the beach in Gary. It doesn't matter how you look at it, this pipeline is a reminder to just how important it is to be careful, when it comes to oil. Q: Why does my SELECT query pull all rows from Tbl1 regardless of WHERE clause? I have a TABLE named "Tbl1" with a META-DATA column named "Names" in the table. The table also has multiple empty columns (a date column, a time column, and a note column) named "SheetName", "Col1", and "Col2". I'm running the query SELECT Tbl1.SheetName FROM Tbl1 WHERE (Tbl1.Col1 = 4) in a formula in VBA. I don't understand why this query pulls every row from Tbl1. I've tried removing the where clause but then it pulls all empty rows as well. I have a sheet in my workbook that displays all results. In this sheet, the names pull only those that would actually return a row but in the same sheet this is not displayed. (Filtering by this sheet name should pull only records from that sheet.) The example given is not correct because: Tbl1 does not have multiple sheets. Tbl1 is empty. A: I think you need to add Table to the from clause. Try this: SELECT Tbl1.SheetName FROM Tbl1 INNER JOIN Table1 ON Tbl1.SheetName = Table1.SheetName The development of direct-acting antivirals (DAAs) that selectively target NS5B polymerase inhibitors against hepatitis C virus (HCV) has yielded remarkable efficacy and a cure rate of ~95% in patients with genotype 1 infections
