FUNET MUSHROOM BOY has been crafted by local students working to make a new niche in the industry. Dedicated to the community we are hard at work developing our next indie game project. In the first version of this game, we are offering 8 different levels with 12 activities and are looking for inspiration on the process and feedback on the game. A: Look at Shiver, it was done by a lot of students as a student project. Shiver: A Fog Shooter Game A wonderfully brief fun game where you control a lone plant that must clear the fog. The closer the fog gets to the edges, the faster it dissipates. Using only your mouse and an iPhone, you will need to guide the plant over and through the fog. It was recently published for sale on IndieGameStand and it was the top non-paid on IGS this week. Q: Couldn't generate an atlas for file (null) I'm trying to use iOS7 Google Analytics SDK with an iOS6 project. Everything works fine, I just have a UIViewController for which I use a Google Map, which is created with this code:

self.googleMap = [[GMSMapView alloc] initWithFrame:CGRectMake(0, 0, self.view.frame.size.width, self.view.frame.size.height)]; self.googleMap.settings.myLocationButton = YES; [self.view addSubview:self.googleMap]; [self.googleMap setDelegate:self];

[self.googleMap sendEvent:@"more info"
toTrack:kGAIUSId]; self.googleMap.camera = GMSCameraPosition.camera(withLatitude:
latitude, longitude: longitude, zoom: zoom); The problem is this: I have this code that i'm doing to generate a new map every time I load a view controller: ... GAIDictionaryBuilder *builder = [GAIDictionaryBuilder createScreenView]; [builder
set:@"Map View" withValue:@"map"
forKey:@"browserType"]; GAIDictionary *options =
[builder build]; [GAI
fetch:@"maps://map?v=removedVersion"
