In the field of biological and biochemical assays, such as enzyme or nucleic acid assays, it is often desirable to have methods, apparatuses, and kits for facilitating and accelerating such assays, and for increasing sensitivity, specificity, and reliability of such assays. High sensitivity and specificity are desirable for diagnostic assays, which are assays performed, typically, to detect the presence of specific nucleic acid or protein sequences in a sample to be tested. High sensitivity assays are also desirable for therapeutic purposes, such as in the detection of 6d1f23a050
